

KILLED BY CABLE CAR SIX

LUCKLESS SIEBER DRAGGED A HUNDRED FEET OF THE CORD

His Clothes Jammed in the Slot He Tried To Take Twenty Minutes to Extricate Him—The Flight of the Gipsman.

Bernhard Sieber, a framer, 42 years old, was crossing 125th street, on the west side of Park avenue, at 5:25 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Cable car 6 struck him, dragged him a hundred feet, and killed him. The gipsman, whose name is G. Grinnau, had rung the gong

Sieber was crossing the street with a little girl in his hand. He apparently did not hear the signal to get out of the way. The big bull's-eye lantern in front of the car hit him. The lantern was smashed and Sieber was thrown down. The car passed partly over him, and then the grip dragged him along until the car could be stopped. The car and got full of women. They shrieked and fell out as fast as they could. A crowd surrounded the car. The clothing was torn off and the girl was thrown out. Sieber was not hurt. He was not hurt. He could not be extorted. He lay there groaning while half a hundred men tried to lift the car from the tracks, but the grip held it fast. Planks were procured and used as levers to raise the car, and, after a delay of twenty minutes, Sieber was taken out. His face was crushed and his legs were broken. He was orest tried to reauate him, but he died there. Just as he died his brother-in-law, Clemens Hagedorn, 1810 Park avenue, arrived and recognized him. The body was taken to the 126th street police station.

While the efforts were being made to pull Sieber from under the car, criminals, the grimacing, the shouting, the shouting, the shouting. When Sieber was finally dragged out the grimacing, probably knowing that it would be hard work to get him on Saturday night, ran off down 124th street, toward the Lexington avenue. It was not until after he had gone that any of the dozen policemen who were there thought of arresting him. The track for a hunter was there, with blood Sieber's blood, his wife and family are in Germany. He lived with his brother-in-law.

PAN-AMERICANS IN BALTIMORE,

Anxious to Establish Closer Relations with the United States.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 25.—The members of the Pan-American Conference—to-day paid their respects to Baltimore. They were received, entertained, and hoted by the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association. It was an opportunity was given them to see the city, the industrial and commercial and transportation facilities of this city and vicinity. The banquet was held at the Carrollton Hotel, the large dining room being elaborately decorated. President James A. Gary of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association welcomed the guests. In his congratulatory address of welcome, the Hon. José María Placido Cusumano said:

"The Americas should be practically as one people. They should be bound by closer between nations of the earth. We of South America are anxious to establish closer relations with the United States, and it only rests with your people to establish it. I like your railroads, your public buildings, your great institutions, and especially your newspapers."

At Madrid, Silva, a member of the "Comité de la Trece Colombia" responding to "the 'Trade Relations of the American Republics'" said: "The project of strengthening the ties and increasing the commercial relations which unite the people of the American continent is of the very nature of the American civilization, and of progress; to strive for this is to labor for the good of all humankind, and to cement the ties of friendship which bind this bond; rapid and easy communication by land and sea; more intimate relations between the peoples of the society is language and the language of ex-credit, that powerful lever which, like faith, can move mountains and sever continents. We are all anxious to see the proposed Three Americas Exposition in 1892 made successful, and all the southern American countries, I think, will officially recognize it and be largely represented."

Mayor Robert C. Davidson, J. Morrison Harris, John V. L. Findlay, ex-Mayor Lathrobe, and John L. Thomas also made responses to toasts.

Is the Winter Over Already?

A storm of considerable energy was passing over the upper lakes yesterday, while a second and still lower depression was rapidly forming over Montana. All the states caused a general rise in temperature in the States, completely cutting the colder weather out of the weather picture, and confining it exclusively to Manitoba. The rushing of the warm wave northward toward the storm centres caused a rise of 25° to 30° in the central States and the Northwest. Along the Atlantic coast it was colder in the morning, but became warmer as the day advanced. The weather was generally fair, becoming cloudy and threatening in the eastern sections.

As the storm moves eastward, warmer, colder weather, and rain or snow may be expected throughout this week, but with a prospect of colder weather by Monday or Tuesday.

High winds prevailed yesterday along the lakes and

AS 80°W, lowest 24-hour average humidity, 90 per cent. - at Perry, lowest, southwest.

To-day promises to be generally cloudy and warmer, with a possibility of light rain. Monday fair, becoming colder.

The thermometer at Perry's Pharmacy in Tusas Bay indicated the temperature yesterday as follows: 80° at 6 a.m., 82° at 10 a.m., 81° at 1 p.m., 80° at 3 p.m., 80° average, 345°. Average on Jan. 23, 1908 40°.

A special weather bulletin of the Washington Signal Office.

"An examination of the dates of the occurrence of three to five day periods of lowest mean temperature for the month of January at various stations in the United States and five Atlantic States from New York City south to the probable conclusion that for this season the period of lowest temperature for this section has already passed. The chances are as seven to one that the lowest monthly mean temperature will not occur later than January, and as five to one that it will three or four day periods later than that date. The chances are as seven to one that January will be warmer than January. The chances against this occurrence are somewhat less for the northern portion of the region referred to than for the southern. In 1908 the lowest temperature of the middle of February, which has the latest on record."

SIGNAL OFFICE PERRY'S PHARMACY TELL P. M. SUNDAY.

FOR Maine, New Hampshire, and Vermont, three-day periods of lowest temperature for the month of January.

light changes in temperature.
For Massachusetts, Rhode Island, and Connecticut, cloudy weather, followed by light local showers during the afternoon or threatening; westerly winds; slight changes in temperature.
For eastern New York, eastern Pennsylvania, and New Jersey, cloudy weather, with light local showers; slightly warmer; southeasterly winds.
For western New York and western Pennsylvania, light rain, southwesterly winds; slight changes in temperature.
For the District of Columbia, Maryland, and Delaware, fair during the greater portion of the day, preceded by light showers; warmer; southwesterly winds.

[illegible]

KILLED BY CABLE CAR SIX.

LUCKLESS SIEBER DRAGGED A HUNDRED FEET BY THE GRIP.

His Clothes Jammed In the Slot So That It Took Twenty Minutes to Extricate Him—The Flight of the Gripman.

Bernhard Sieber, a framer, 42 years old, was crossing 125th street, on the west side of Park avenue, at 5:25 o'clock yesterday after-hundred feet, and killed him. The griffin, whose name is G. Grinnus, had rung the alarm on his car as it passed rapidly over the bridge. Sieber was crossing the street with a little red tin pan in his hand. He apparently did not hear the signal to get out of the way. The big bull's-eye lantern in front of the car hit him. The lantern was smashed and Sieber was thrown down. The car passed partly over him, and then the grip dragged him.

The car was full of women. They shrieked and got out as fast as they could. A crowd surrounded the car. Sieber's clothing had been forced into the slot by the grip, and he could not be extricated. He lay there groaning while half a hundred men tried to lift the car from the tracks, but the grip held it fast. Planks were procured and used as levers to raise the car, and, after a delay of twenty min-crushed and his legs were broken. He was carried to the sidewalk and Dr. John H. Demarest tried to resuscitate him, but he died. He was identified as the brother-in-law of Clemens Henger of 1810 Park avenue. Arrived and recognized him. The body was taken to the 126th street police station.

While the efforts were being made to pull Sieber from under the car, Grinnau, the gripman, was assisting to the best of his ability. When Sieber was finally dragged out the gripman, probably knowing that it would be hard 125th street, and disappeared near Lexington avenue. It was not until after he had gone that any of the dozen policemen who were there thought of looking for him. The track for a hundred feet was spattered with blood. Sieber's wife and family are in Germany. He lived with his brother-in-law.

PAN-AMERICANS IN BALTIMORE.

Anxious to Establish Closer Relations with the United States.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 23.—The members of the Pan-American Conference to-day paid their respects to Baltimore. They were received, en-obtained, and later by the merchants and Manufacturers' Association, and an opportunity was given them to see the industrial plant and commercial and transportation facilities of this city and vicinity. The banquet was held at the Carrollton Hotel, the large din-

"The Americans should be practically as one people. They should be bound by closer ties than the more commercial unions existing between nations of the earth. We of South America are anxious to establish closer relations with the United States, and it only rests with your people to establish it. I like your railroads, your public buildings, your great institutions, and especially your newspapers."

The Treasury of Colombia, responding to the Trade Relations of the American Republics, said: "The nations are strengthening their ties and increasing the commercial relations which exist between the United States and the people of the rest of the American continent in order to attain the end of civilization, and of progress; to strive for this end is to labor for the good of all humanity. Three things are necessary to attain this end: peace, capital, and easy communication by land and sea, monetary unity—for commerce is society, and society is language and the language of exchange is money, and the promulgation of peace, the circulation of capital, the opening of new move mountains and cover continents. We Americas Exposition in 1892 made successful and all the southern American countries, I think, will officially recognize it and be largely represented."

Mayor Robert C. Davidson, J. Morrison Harris, John V. L. Findlay, ex-Mayor Lathrobe, and John L. Thomas also made responses to toasts.

---

Is the Winter Over Already?

A storm of considerable energy was passing over the upper lakes yesterday, while a second and still lower depression was rapidly forming over Montana. These storms caused a general rise in temperature in all the States, completely cutting off the colder weather of the Northwest and confining it exclusively to Manitoba. The rushing of the warm wave northward toward the storm centres caused a rise of  $25^{\circ}$  to  $30^{\circ}$  in the central States and the Northwest. Along the

As the storm moves eastward, warmer, cloudy weather, and rain or snow may be expected throughout this part of the country with a prospect of colder weather by Monday or Tuesday.

The thermometer at Perry's Pharmacy in THE BOX

A special weather bulletin of the Washington Signal office says:

"An examination of the dates of the occurrence of three to five day periods of lowest mean temperature

A number of representative stations in the Middle and South Atlantic States from New York city south leads to the probable conclusion that for this season the period of lowest temperature for this section has already occurred. The chances are as seven to one that the lowest monthly mean temperature will not occur later than January, and as five to one that the three to five day period of lowest mean temperature will not

For Maine, New Hampshire, and Vermont, threatening weather, with light local snows, westerly winds

For eastern New York, eastern Pennsylvania, and New Jersey, cloudy weather, with light local showers during afternoon or threatening; westerly winds; slight changes in temperature.

For the District of Columbia, Maryland, and Delaware, fair during the greater portion of the day, preceded by light showers; warmer; southwesterly winds.

The Hon. Thomas C. Platt contributed $100 to the Washington Arch Fund yesterday. The fund is now $1,000.50.

The annual dinner of the alumni of the University of the City of New York will be given at the Hotel Brunswick on Thursday evening next.

Prof. H. B. St. John Kossa will address the meeting of the students' union this evening in the gymnasium hall.

The twenty-fifth anniversary ball of the Cercle Francaise de l'Harmonie will be held at the Metropolitan Opera House on Tuesday evening next.

Mrs. Jeanne Miller will deliver one of her interesting stories in this city some time during the month of February. She has just returned from a lecture tour through the West and South.

The Young People's Christian Association of this city will give a free

The Madison Avenue Baptist Church. The afternoon session will begin at 3, the evening session at 7:30 o'clock.

The sixth conference of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor of New York city and vicinity will be held in Flushing Congregational church, Madison avenue and 121st street on Thursday next. There will be afternoon and evening sessions.

The next term of the classes of advanced instruction for women will begin on Feb. 3 and continue till the end may. The classes are held in the afternoon in the home of Miss Chisholm's school 15 East Sixty-fifth street. Miss Margaret Merington, 161st street and Grand Boulevard, is Chairman of the Board of Directors.